Cannon HinnantBornCannon Blake Hinnant (2015-04-30)April 30, 2015North Carolina, USA Died August 9, 2020 (2020-08-09) (5 years) [1]Wilson, North Carolina, U.S.Cause of death Gun wound Cannon Blake Hinnant was a five-year-old American boy from Wilson, North Carolina. At 5:30 p.m. on August 9, 2020, he cycled into the neighbor’s property, and his neighbor, Darius Sessoms, a 25-year-old man, allegedly shot the boy at close range. At the time, Hinnant was playing outside with his two older sisters. He was taken to Wilson Medical Center, where he died of his injuries. [3] The motive for the shooting is unknown. [2] Sessoms was arrested within 24 hours and later charged with first-degree murder. [4] Hinnant’s funeral was held on August 13, 2020. [6] There were politically conservative social media allegations that major media outlets other than Fox News were reporting on the story because they did not want to report on a black man killing a white child. However, according to Snopes, there was coverage of the murder and there was no evidence of cover-up. A GoFundMe page was set up by Hinnant’s grandmother to raise $5,000 for the family to seek justice for the boy’s death, and by August 19 had raised more than $766,000. On September 22, Aolani Takemi Marie Pettit, 21, of Wilson, was also arrested in connection with the case. She was charged with complicity after the fact. [9] Victim Cannon Hinnant was born on April 30, 2015[10] to Austin and Bonny Hinnant. He had two brothers. Hinnant's parents divorced in 2019 and he spent weekends at his father's house. [11] Memorials On August 14, 2020, a large street memorial named after Hinnant was painted by Skeeter Tulloch of Lee County. He said, Cannon's life matters. On August 23, hundreds of bikers and community members gathered in Kenly, North Carolina to honor Hinnant. Event attendees wore shirts with the phrase I Can't Ride / All Lives Matter. An all-day softball event was also held the day before, raising funds to get justice for Hinnant.
